

ANNOUNCEMENT

National Institute of Development Administration Extended Temporary Suspension of Operational Services (2nd Issue)

The National Institute of Development Administration has provided an announcement regarding the temporary suspension of operational services from March 22 to April 30, 2020 dated March 27, 2020 to prevent the wide spread of Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19) Epidemic Outbreaks.

In accordance with the Government's announcement to extend the Emergency Decree for Thailand from May 1 to May 31, 2020 and to prolong the implementation of Bangkok Metropolitan Administration's announcement and official orders before these regulations were issued based on Emergency Decree Article 9, A.D. 2005 (4th issue) inclusive of temporary suspension of locations' operational services including all levels of educational institutions until further notice; under the authority of Article 40 based on the National Institute of Development Administration Act. A.D. 2019, NIDA hereby announces the following temporary suspension of operational services as described below.

1. NIDA is obliged to extend the temporary suspension of our operational services located in Bangkok to May 31, 2020. The NIDA President appoints only designated members of management and security teams to remain on campus.
2. All instruction is required to be conducted through online systems to comply with the Guidelines for Instructional Management under Extraordinary Circumstances as a consequence of Corona Virus 2019 (COVID-19). Instructors and staff are obliged to employ work from home methods according to NIDA's announcement on work from home during the COVID-19 epidemic outbreaks.
3. In the case of any difficulties arising from implementing this announcement, the NIDA President has the authority for discretion and his decision shall be taken as final.
